

Family Group Conferencing (family group decision-making circle)

This workshop provides individuals with foundational knowledge and basic skills for facilitating restorative circles with families and structured practice in a Family Group Conference.

Learning objectives are:

- to learn how circle process forms a foundational restorative approach for addressing issues of concern in families, schools and communities
- to deepen our collective understanding regarding the intention of family group conferencing for families dealing with current or potential child protection issues
- to gain competency in planning and facilitating circles and Family Group Conferences
- to increase understanding of historical impacts and intergenerational trauma for Indigenous peoples which are contributing to the over-representation of this population on many social indicators including kids in government care
- to learn how this process can offer an invitation to family healing and decolonization therapy for Indigenous families
- to examine components and techniques of the facilitator (circle keeper) role , including cross-cultural competency and empowerment based strategies

Facilitator:

Sharon Steinhauer is Team Lead for Social Work education at University nuhelot'jine thaiyots'j nistameyimâkanak Blue Quills (formerly Blue Quills First Nations College).
